Mont Sainte-Anne has expanded its snow sports roster with a new activity – fat-biking.

You might have seen fat bikes around town. They look like mountain bikes, but with thicker tires to tackle snow. The fat bikes can make it through lots of varied terrain, but the experts at Mont Sainte-Anne figure this new generation of wheels works best on packed surfaces.

Fat-biking is not permitted on cross-country ski and snowshoe trails, so Mont Sainte-Anne has created three dedicated, groomed loops that add up to 11 kilometres of cardio fun. The trails all depart from the St-Julien Main Lodge, which is the cross-country ski centre, and wind through the woods and along the mountainside.

Mont Sainte-Anne is a leader in winter sport. With 200 kilometres of expertly groomed classic and skating trails, its Nordic centre is one of the two most comprehensive in North America. Royal Gorge in California also has 200 km of trails.

Pierre Vézina, the centre's director, concedes that the western mountains have more elevation and more snow, "but Mont Sainte-

Anne has a well-equipped waxing room, a spacious chalet and exceptional competition facilities. We have hosted the World Junior Championship and many Canadian competitions."

The World Masters Championships is coming up Feb 1 to 7. The Mont Sainte-Anne cross-country centre is the home training ground of father-and-son champions Pierre and Alex Harvey, who both have competed at the Olympics.

Mont Sainte-Anne also embraces a picturesque camping area. If you bring your overnight gear, organizers will ferry it by snowmobile to a trailside refuge where you can spend the night warmed by a gas stove for heat and cooking. The trail network is home to five such camping cabins as well as the group-travel getaway, Chalet du Fondeur, a dorm-style chalet ideal for a gathering of family, friends or colleagues who want to escape into nature.

Mont Sainte-Anne's downhill mountain has three peaks, a summit restaurant, exceptional night-skiing and snowboarding and splendid views of the St. Lawrence River. And within a few kilometres, visitors can experience snowshoeing, ice-skating, dogsledding, ice-climbing and para-gliding, as well as off-snow fun such as spa life.

The new central reservation service called St. Lawrence Summits is the best contact for sports packages and lodging for 1,500 visitors around Mont-Sainte-Anne in condos, chalets and hotel rooms, plus Stoneham and Le Massif du Charlevoix.

Prices for the most part for any cruise have gone up. With the CAD $ now hovering around 20% less than the US, and with almost all pricing based in US currency, us Canadians are going to have to pay more. The good news is that our packages haven't gone up as much as they should have! Starting with the ms Noordam, April 19th sailing, a high category balcony stateroom, with one night four star hotel in Fort Lauderdale, a small onboard credit, roundtrip Montreal air and all taxes is only $4149 CAD per person for the 20 night package. An inside stateroom is $3249 CAD.

This full canal voyage ports in Colombia, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Guatemala, 3 Mexican stops, San Diego, Victoria and then into Vancouver.

Our new ms Oosterdam Sept 27th package starts in Vancouver, then to Astoria, San Francisco, 3 Mexican ports, Costa Rica, Columbia, Bahamas and finally into Fort Lauderdale. If you want to extend in the Caribbean, this is an option. This 20 night package includes the 19 night cruise in a very high category balcony stateroom, a $300 per stateroom onboard credit, 1 night in Vancouver, roundtrip Montreal air and all taxes for $4749 CAD pp.
